KELLY COFFEY

Chief Executive
City National Bank

THE LATEST: During Coffey's first year at the helm, City National experienced rapid growth across its business. According to the bank, total assets grew 20% to more than $61 billion, deposits climbed 21% to $49 billion, and loans increased 19% to just under $43 billion between Jan. 31, 2019 and Jan. 31, 2020. Coffey also joined the board of local social-media mainstay Snap Inc. last May.

BACKGROUND: Coffey is one of the few female chief executives leading large companies in Los Angeles. She has more than two decades of diverse financial services experience. Before City National, Coffey served as chief executive of J.P. Morgan's U.S. Private Bank. She also worked at the firm's investment bank, where she held a variety of leadership positions. Coffey began her career in mergers and acquisitions and spent six years working in Buenos Aires, Argentina.

RUSSELL GOLDSMITH

Chairman
City National Bank

THE LATEST: Despite stepping down as City National's chief executive last year, Goldsmith has remained active as chairman. He co-led the bank's $2 million donation drive to support communities affected by the coronavirus pandemic and spearheaded City National's partnership with L.A. Unified to promote financial literacy among high school students and their families. Goldsmith also interviewed former Federal Reserve Chairman Ben Bernanke at City National's annual Economic and Investment Forum in January.

BACKGROUND: Goldsmith served as chief executive and chairman of City National from 1995 to early 2019. From 2008 to 2011, he was a member of the Federal Reserve Board's 12-member Federal Advisory Council. Goldsmith previously served as chairman and chief executive of Republic Pictures Corp., chief operating officer of Lorimar Inc. and vice chairman of the San Diego Padres. A graduate of Harvard College and Harvard Law School, Goldsmith began his professional career as an entertainment attorney in Los Angeles.
